Derren Brown makes public appeal to people of Plymouth

Ahead of the world premiere of his new stage show SHOWMAN at Plymouth's Theatre Royal, which begins on Saturday August 28, Derren Brown is making a personal appeal to all those planning on coming along.

The world renowned performer told us today: "I would love you to bring with you, from home, an object that has personal significance for you. Something with sentimental value, and ideally maybe has a bit of a story behind it. It just needs to be small enough that you can hide it in your hand and keep it hidden".

Derren will be performing at the Theatre Royal from 28th August to the 4th of September, with what will be his first new live show for six years.

Derren added: "We were all ready to open Showman when the tour had to be postponed. Now, after sitting around in my pants for months I am so, so eager to get this show on the road, and thrilled we're kicking off in Plymouth".

There are still a few tickets left, but hurry! <https://theatreroyal.com/whats-on/derren-brown-showman/>

Theatre Royal Plymouth works with partners to understand the challenges people face accessing the arts, especially vulnerable and disadvantaged people. It creates pathways that are genuinely accessible to those who might otherwise never get to engage with the arts. They collaborate to co-create and co-author work that represents the community, creating the space needed for people to tell their story in their own way.

Theatre Royal Plymouth is the UK's largest regional producing theatre. With a focus on embracing the vitality of new talent and supporting emerging and established artists. It collaborates with a range of partners to provide dynamic cultural leadership for the city of Plymouth.
